

X2 COMPUTING AT THE RACES

X2 Computing sponsored a team in a charity race organised by Gala Coral in support of the Sue Ryder Care charity which provides much needed support to people with specialist palliative, end of life and long term neurological care needs.

The team, including Mark Sergeant, Group Gaming Director, was kitted out in fancy dress dog costumes and raced a distance of 550 metres around Brighton and Hove Greyhound Stadium passing a bone in place of a baton. Whilst the X2 Computing team did not win, they finished in third place and played a major part in helping to raise more than £7000 for Sue Ryder Care on the night.

According to Francis Davis, Managing Director of X2 Computing: "We are proud to have sponsored this event that will help Sue Ryder Care to continue its important work in supporting people with life threatening conditions."

The 'dog' race was featured on Sky Sports, which was at the track to film the Coral Sussex Cup, a highlight of the greyhound race calendar.
